Archery World Plan

World Archery has created a World Plan Ad Hoc Commission to help implement the Plan in our member associations. This commission is composed of Vicente MARTINEZ ORGA (ESP), Peter CHIU (TPE), and Sergio FONT (CUB). Lars HAUE-PEDERSEN (TSE Consulting) and Tom DIELEN (World Archery Secretary General) will complete this team as Ex Officio members.

Athletes of the Year

Over 12,000 archery fans took part in an online vote in December 2013 to name the World Archery female and male Athletes of the Year, while members of World Archery's Athlete and Coaches Committees ranked their favourite finalists in a separate poll. Shortlisted athletes' final rankings were determined by a combined average of the public and committee votes.

Another highly-consistent World Cup season and double gold at the Cali World Games was enough to win USA compound archer Erika JONES the World Archery Female Athlete of the Year 2013 award, after she took 39% of the public vote.

The American has also been nominated for the Athlete of the World Games award. The vote closes on 31 January 2014 at: <http://www.theworldgames.org/the-sports/polls/1-athlete-of-the-year-2013>.

Among the seven finalists in the female category, Maja JAGER (DEN) finished fifth after the final vote. The Dane was also named Denmark's Athlete of the Year for her 2013 achievement and will be a hot name to watch heading into the 2014 season.

JAGER's fellow countryman Martin DAMSBO won the 2013 World Cup Final in Paris before a team title at the World Championships and starting strong this indoor season. Voters decided it was a year worthy of World Archery's 2013 Male Athlete of the Year title!

DAMSBO pipped Mike SCHLOESSER (NED) who was the fan favourite with 41% of their votes.

Past Events

Indoor World Cup Stage 3 Telford

The second half of the 2013/14 Indoor Archery World Cup started on Friday 24 January 2014 when archers from around the world shot qualification in Telford. Telford was the last chance for athletes to pick up Indoor Archery World Cup ranking points before the fourth stage and Final in Las Vegas at the beginning of February. This means the first-time host of a World Cup stage attracted the world's top archers, as it replaced Nimes on this year's calendar while the French town concentrates on organising the World Indoor Championships.

Jean Charles VALLADONT (FRA) and Erika JONES (USA) won a second Indoor World Cup stage in a row. Having taken gold in Singapore – and silver in Marrakesh for VALLADONT – the pair extended their lead in the Indoor World Cup rankings by winning in Telford, in an impressively-lit finals arena.

Striding from a darkened door into a room packed with over 1,000 spectators, illuminated by rows and piles of multi-coloured light beams, Jean Charles VALLADONT fell behind in the all-French final against Thomas FAUCHERON. VALLADONT fought back, finished with two 30s to win 6-4, and claimed his second gold (and third medal) in a row at this year's Indoor Archery World Cup.

Erika JONES looked sharp from start to finish in Telford: displaying the kind of form that got the compound archer voted Female Athlete of the Year for 2013. She finished off Danish archer Camilla SOEMOD in four sets, and won her second gold in a row after Singapore as well.
